

AusBiotech board elections

Tuesday, 20 September 2011

THE 2011 quest to choose two members of the nine candidates for the AusBiotech board has begun.

Financial members of AusBiotech are invited to cast their votes in the elections, which open today. The ballot closes on October 4.

The nominees for the two positions include Calzada chief executive officer Dr Stewart James Washer, Bionomics CEO Dr Deborah Rathjen and ex-CSL representative Peter Turvey.

Also in contention are Benitec CEO Dr Peter French, Capital Investments partner Dr Mark Harvey, BioPharmaceuticals Australia CEO David Hughes, pSivida vice-president Brian Leedman and CSIRO representative Dr David Ireland.

Information has been emailed to AusBiotech members to allow them to access the online voting system and biographical information about each candidate.

The outcome of the election and board line-up will be announced at AusBiotech's annual general meeting at the AusBiotech conference next month. The two successful candidate's tenure will begin formally at the conclusion of the meeting.

Members who have questions regarding the election process or eligibility to vote should phone AusBiotech company secretary Richard Alderson on (03) 9828 1431.
