AusBiotech announces partnership with TVG

AusBiotech has joined with Technology Vision Group LLC (TVG) as it continues to expand the Global Life Science Network™, providing partnering and support for clients in over 55 countries.

This new collaboration expands TVG's global network into Australia and Asia-Pacific. Dr. Robert Lee Kilpatrick, Partner at TVG said: "Partnerships with industry leaders have always been a crucial element in TVG's amazing success. Looking ahead, our growth strategy includes the creation of new partnerships across the whole spectrum of life science business development, giving us both the breadth and depth that our clients require for their success."

AusBiotech members will already be familiar with the backbone of the TVG network if they have used the Business Matching Program at any the AusBiotech events. Conference attendees have access to a global business network in person and online through TVG's biopartnering.com community – the industry leading online meeting venue connecting attendees before, during, and after conferences.

TVG's Global Life Science Network™ connects an international consortium of regional trade and business development organisations focused on promoting the growth of the life science and biotechnology industries worldwide. Regional affiliates include important industry associations and government institutions in every major biotech hub, across thirteen countries. Through our regional affiliates the network can connect companies with potential business partners, government representatives, and supporting regional networks wherever the life science industry is expanding.

TVG's Global Conference Network includes focused events in all key markets. CEO of AusBiotech, Dr Anna Lavelle said: "Biotechnology is a truly global industry and the AusBiotech conference attracts participation from 25 countries around the world. AusBiotech has been using TVG's biopartnering.com since 2006 and we have seen a significant growth in business meetings over this period. It provides ease of communication in planning business matching meetings. In 2009 over 2,000 meetings were held in a three-day period. We look forward to an ongoing relationship as we think this provides a good service for delegates and the broader industry."

The Business Matching Program will be available at:
